Introduction of OCTAETERIS or eight-year cycle, in three years of which an additional "full" month was introduced, while the remaining years consisted of (as in time of Hesiod) 6 "full" months and 6 "empty" months

By this arrangement the average length of the year was reduced to $365 \frac{1}{4}$ days, that are length of the month remaining nearly unchanged.
